

How to Use the Boston Business Journal as a Strategic Job Search Tool

The Boston Business Journal can be a job seeker's most valuable tool ~ especially when you know how to find and use the information presented for your search.

✚ Discover how to read BBJ with the eyes of an informed job seeker, turn up job leads and connect with leading industries and top executives.

✚ Think like a salesperson and show up differently as a job candidate.

✚ Learn tips, tricks & a unique perspective from a former recruiter.

When: Tuesday September 13, 2011 @ 2:00 p.m.

Where: Employment & Training Resources ~ Newton
449 Newtonville Avenue, Newton, MA 02460

Interested candidates need to register for this event. Please contact the Newton office to reserve a space at 617-928-0530. Event starts promptly at 2:00 pm so kindly be on time!

Presenter: Abby Grant of the Boston Business Journal has close to 20 years working in the communications field including publishing, advertising and public relations. Abby currently works in the Circulation Group at the Boston Business Journal - Boston's premier business publication. Prior to that, she was with Hollister, a Boston-based recruiting and staffing firm, conducting business development for the creative and marketing group. She has held business development and account management roles for several Boston-based public relations and advertising agencies. Abby holds a B.A. from the University of New Hampshire and a M.A. from Emerson College.

Boston Business Journal